Prof. Curtis J. Lyons, the local weather prophet, will not be compelled to get out of bed at 2 a. m. for many, many months to report by cable to the mainland the state of the weather in Honolulu. There is no appropriation from Congress yet for the purpose of obtaining the record and no money will be available during the present session.

Prof. Lyons received word when the cable was laid that he would probably be required to send a local weather report to the weather men in San Francisco and Washington in the wee sma' hours. Since then he has been advised that this will not be required until some time in the future. The professor expects that when the appropriation is made it will be for the establishment of a complete weather bureau with men detailed to keep tab on the weather as in all parts of the United States. An anemometer will have to be erected on the topmost portion of the weather station. This instrument, connected by electricity with the recording mechanism below, must be put far above tree tops and in a place entirely free from wind obstructions.

The Young Building has been suggested as a place well adapted for the location of the weather bureau, but Prof. Lyons has not yet determined whether the weather at that height would be an index to the general state of the atmosphere in Honolulu.

"I was coming along New Jersey avenue the other day," said Senator Dubois, "and I saw two little boys playing horse, as I thought. One boy was in a small cart and the other boy was drawing him. Trailing along behind the cart came a most disconsolate looking little girl, a sister of one of the little boys. I stopped the boys, whom I knew, and said to one of them: 'Tommy, what are you playing?' 'We're playing automobile,' replied Tommy.

"Well, I asked, 'why don't you let sister play, too?' 'She is playing,' said Tommy. 'She's the gasoline smell.'—New York World.

"Henry, why do you smoke continually, from morning until night?" "It's the only time I get. I sleep from night till morning."—Tit-Bits.

"Gracious, Mr. Halton, you have eaten all the birdseed." "You don't say? I thought it was a new breakfast food."—Chicago Daily News.

Mrs. Given—"Now, don't spend it on vile liquor." Thirsty Tim—"I won't lady. What brand do youse generally call for?"—Judge.

Rodrick—"You say he has faced bursting shells. What battle was he in?" Van Albert—"None. He is a chestnut roaster."—Chicago Daily News.
